Lasai

Design: Burkhard Vogtherr

LASAI Bench is borned to meet with a very exclusive demand for waiting areas.

To achieve a “pure” aesthetic line has been a fixed idea in the development of LASAI Benchwood. The subtle connexions between the different parts of the bench are a good example of it.

The design of LASAI Bench helps to keep a correct ergonomic position thanks to the seat's slope.

Slam Soft

Design: Estudi Manel Molina

The SLAM Soft Beam is a modular seating programme developed to equip a wide range of facilities, from new collaborative workspaces to waiting rooms in passenger terminals, from medical offices to hotel lobbies and conference centres. Its compact dimensions make it the perfect choice for smaller installations.

It is possible to create compositions from 2 to 6 seaters in different versions: upholstered seat only and upholstered seat and backrest (with or without armrests). Its structure allows compositions in line or at an angle thanks to the corner tables, which can be at 90° or 135° angles, and the seats can be combined giving different orientations to the seats. The seating beam offers two leg options (painted aluminium and wood) and the possibility of electrifying the bench with USB connections.

Finally, it should be noted that there are two types of upholstery: normal upholstery and upholstery with piping.

Mass

Design: ITEMdesignworks

The MASS Chair stands out for being a stackable seating, since it can be stacked up to 40 units reaching a height of 1.70 m. Its care design overcomes technical challenges: the backrest in its perimeter is 5 mm thick (so far unachievable) keeping the necessary sturdiness to be placed in intensive use spaces.

Tables

Fast

Design: Carlos Tíscar

The FAST Table, although we better call it “system”, is composed by a steel painted frame and one, or several, tops. Just a single frame which by changing its position can allocate different top sizes (rectangular or round ones). This innovative system opens a great variety of possibilities for multiuse areas.

The system allows that the same frame performs as a congress or seminar table in the morning and as a table for dinner in the evening, which will cause money and room saving.
